Salmon & Sea Trout

Arrange a days Salmon fishing or an evenings Sea Trout fishing for yourself or your partner. Enjoy the fantastic sport that these magnificent, and often acrobatic fish can present to the Angler. Although Salmon and Sea

Trout can be present in our rivers throughout the season, your success rate can be very dependant on water conditions, temperature and time of year.

Brown Trout

There is nothing quite like it, a session on the river with the opportunity of hooking into a succession of hard fighting Wild Brown Trout. Whether you prefer to fish on or below the surface these are the days for you as both wet and dry fly patterns work extremely well depending of course on the insect life that is in attendance on your chosen days. A truly enjoyable experience.

Grayling

Grayling fishing is a big bonus to the fly fisher as it extends our season throughout the Winter months. So forget those closed season blues and reach for those bugs & spider patterns, because now is the time to indulge yourself in a spot of Grayling fishing. The Grayling is one of the most beautiful fish in the river with it's unique features, & it can fight too.

Pike

Pike on the fly is an exciting prospect, and one every fly fisher should try. As with Grayling fishing, Pike can Also extend the fly fishers season albeit by using very different casting techniques as we tend to use higher rated rods & heavier lines with larger flies, but these techniques can soon be learned throughout the course of the day and put into practise.

Here are a few of the casting options that are available to learn during your time with me, regardless of whether you are a beginner or an angler that simply wants to add to your armoury. You Choose.
